AUXILIARY SERVICES

4.25010 BP

Auxiliary services such as food services, bookstores, and other similar services shall be instituted and maintained on the college campuses as a part of the continuing effort to provide facilities, services, and activities for the educational and personal development of students of the district. These auxiliary services shall, where appropriate, be made available also to the staff of the district, and shall be subject to internal and external audits.

It shall be the intention of the district to offer these services as an adjunct to the instructional program, or as a service to students and staff. It is not the intention of the district to compete with or detract from merchants offering such services to the general community.

The chancellor shall recommend in the annual budget each year those auxiliary services deemed appropriate for the district.
